Bali

A popular island in Indonesia where nature’s artistry and man’s architecture are in perfect sync. Bali is a place of surreal beauty. With all the colours of nature in their purest form, this city attracts all types of travellers, from backpackers to luxury lovers, all year-round.

Some of the most famous places to visit in Indonesia include Seminyak, Mount Batur, Sanur, Bali, Uluwatu Temple and Mount Agung.

Famous For: City

Verdure of tropical trees, unending stretches of silvery sand with clear blue waves rolling over them and delightful sights of seeing the sun sink into the sea in evenings are things that need to be experienced. The famed Island of the Gods, Bali is a destination which has beautiful landscapes as a backdrop to the rich and spiritual heritage. It does not matter if you are a backpacker or a richie-rich kind of a traveller, Bali has something to offer to everybody.

It is quite fair to say that almost all aspects of Balinese life is submerged in religious values and rituals. Known for its numerous Hindu Temples, Bali is best explored on a rented bike. Once you are done with exploring the city, you have to get some pampering done by the umpteen number of spas in the city. Not to forget, there are too many water adventures available for all the visitors with some training here and there. The seafood at Bali is amazing. While roaming around the city, you have to be cautious of the monkeys here as they will grab anything and everything from you.

What To
1. Nusa Dua Beach

Lined with the best of Bali’s high end resorts, the Nusa Dua Beach is a calm stretch of golden sands and turquoise waters, ideal for a peaceful time and chilling. The beach essentially has a very calm character, with a shallow beach and little or no waves, making it a great place to head with children.

In keeping with the serene atmosphere, the beach is completely devoid of hawkers and shacks, and all that you need to drink or eat comes from the hotels of these resorts. The beach is complete with sun beds and thatched umbrellas, so carry along just a good book and your swimming gear, and you’re all set for a few hours of unbeatable peace and quiet.

2. Bias Tugal Beach

Bias Tugal Beach in Bali makes for a lovely holiday spot as it has something for everyone. Despite the fact that it is located in close proximity to Padang Bai, it has its share of privacy and seclusion as you won’t find a large number of tourists here. Except for a little section near the road where vendors roam and locals come for their evening constitutional, the beach is uncrowded. This pristine stretch of grainy, soft, flour-like white sand, sparkling blue water along with a scenic landscape offers a comprehensive water sports experience for the enthusiasts. You can try your hands at snorkelling and swimming here as there are relatively smaller waves which are ideal for the above mentioned stuff. However, it is recommended to bring your snorkeling equipments with you as you won’t find many related vendors here. It is also one of the best places to experience sunbathing but make sure you stay under a tree as it gets hotter as the day passes by. Head here for an ultimate beach experience.

3. Sekumpul Waterfalls

Not known to many tourists, Sekumpul Waterfalls is a hidden gem in the land of Bali and is a must visit attraction for nature lovers and trekkers alike. You will love the sight of water cascading down from a height and merging their way to form a beautiful sight. For people who love swimming, there is a small lake nearby to enjoy a splash and get soaked in. Surrounded by the dense tropical forests, the waterfall requires some trekking to reach here and you will be accompanied by natural scenic beauty on your way. Even though not as popular as its counterpart, Gitgit, Sekumpul waterfalls perfectly fits the bill of a place where you can spend some moments of relaxation in nature’s lap.

4. Monkey Forest

Bali’s tryst with nature is reflected strikingly in the Sacred Monkey Forest where the revered long tailed macaque swings from the branches of 115 different species of trees that too are considered sacred and holy. The forest is owned or rather cared for by the village of Padangtegal, located 20 km north of Denpasar in Ubud. It is actually a holy site for Balinese temples (Pura) have 3 major sites—Pura Desa (associated with God Brahma, where community councils pray and govern), Pura Puseh (temples of origin), located towards the kaja (upstream) end of villages and associated with the God Vishnu, dedicated to remembering the founders of villages and finally Pura Delam (temples of the dead), located towards the kelod (downstream) end of villages, associated with the God Siwa and have graveyards. Known as ‘the destroyer’ God Siwa’s spiritual function is to destroy negativity in the world. Throughout your visit to the forest and its temples, you will have swinging troops of long tailed macaques accompanying you and no, not in a cute way. So be extra careful when you visit this place.

5 Lovina Beach

This 12 km stretch of golden sand offers that much needed break from the regular hustle bustle of city life. The sand is soft, there’s an incredible view and experience of the Indian Ocean stretching out to eternity before you, that is what we call Heaven! You will fall in love with it instantly, if you are a nature-lover as Lovina Beach looks like it has been plucked directly from your drawing book. The beach is normally safe to enjoy swimming and a couple of other activities. If you want some some quiet moments, we recommend you visit there on weekdays as it becomes a little crowded during weekends.

Where To Eat

1. Chandi
   - Jalan Laksmana 72 | Bali, Seminyak, Bali 80361, Indonesia
